

I give (insert dollar amount) to the eviDent Foundation ACN 152 078 487, for its general purposes.

Stated purpose

If you decide to allocate your bequest for a stated purpose, that is, a particular project, grant, professional development program or a specific area of research, we suggest that you include one of the following statements in your Will:

I give (insert percentage) of my residuary estate to the eviDent Foundation ACN 152 078 487, for (insert purpose).

OR

I give (insert dollar amount) of my residuary estate to the eviDent Foundation ACN 152 078 487, for (insert purpose).

Please note that the research priorities of the eviDent Foundation may change over time. If you choose to make a bequest for a stated purpose, we suggest that you include the following provision in your Will:

If at any time the eviDent Foundation determines that it is impossible or impracticable to carry out the stated purpose then the eviDent Foundation may apply the bequest for such purpose or purposes as the eviDent Foundation determines most closely accords with the stated purpose.

Let us know about your bequest

Whilst an unexpected gift is a nice surprise, you will help the eviDent Foundation even more if you let us know about your bequest. This will help us to plan for the future, to thank you and to share with you our plans for the eviDent Foundation.

Bequests

A lasting contribution

Our Vision

Facilitating dental practice based research for better oral health.

Our Mission

eviDent spearheads Australia's leading dental practice based research network in improving the oral health of our community through engagement of dental practitioners and their patients.

Our Supporters

Our research is made possible because of support from the Australian Dental Association Victorian Branch, Oral Health Cooperative Research Centre, individual and corporate donors, grants, and loyal supporters who remember eviDent in their Will.

Your Invitation

The eviDent Foundation relies on the generosity of significant in-kind support from the Oral Health Cooperative Research Centre (funded until 30 June 2018) and the Australian Dental Association Victorian Branch Inc.

eviDent recognises these resources are limited, and seeks to plan for financial sustainability to enhance the clinical outcomes of dental practice and improve patient care by providing the means for dental practice based research, and a platform for dissemination of evidence based clinical knowledge.

In addition to the in-kind support, eviDent receives project specific grants and is fortunate to receive donations from various sources.

I invite you to consider making a bequest to the eviDent Foundation. Join the Foundation's commitment to the pursuit of better community oral health. Including the eviDent Foundation in your Will is an ideal way to improve the health of the community and create lasting change. Together we can facilitate dental practice based research for better oral health.

CEO/ Secretary

Writing your Will

When writing your Will it is important to obtain legal advice, to ensure that your Will is valid and that it will achieve your wish. It is also important to consider the needs of your family when making your Will, and let them know if you decide to leave a bequest to the eviDent Foundation.

The eviDent Foundation cannot provide you with legal advice, but we have provided suggested statements as a guide to assist you with the process.

There are many ways to make a bequest; the most common is a specific bequest of a specified amount of money or an asset. You can help us to achieve your wish by keeping your bequest quite general.

Specific bequest

For a specific bequest, you bequeath a specified amount or an asset, e.g. shares, or property.

Residuary bequest

For a residuary bequest, you give a portion of your residuary estate, that is, what remains after all other gifts and costs have been paid.

General purposes

For a general purposes bequest, the eviDent Foundation will use the funds to the greatest need at the time. If you choose this option, we suggest that you use one of the following statements in your Will:

I give (insert percentage) of my residuary estate to the eviDent Foundation ACN 152 078 487, for its general purposes.
